Greetings From Dr. Murthy

I love the art and science of orthodontics. Getting to know each of my patients and treating them the same way I would want my twin boys to be treated is something that I truly value and enjoy. In June of 2013, I received a letter in the mail from a prior patient named Ben that really reinforced my passion for being an orthodontist. His was a complex case, but with patience, teamwork and logical treatment planning, we were able to complete his treatment just days before he married the love of his life. In his letter to our practice, Ben wrote:

"When I first visited Dr. Murthy's office, I had an open bite that most likely required removing teeth, surgery and plenty of steps to fix my crooked parts. He made sure I understood the entire picture and what to expect, and I followed everything I could that he asked of me, except that I should always have flossed more. The smile and bite I started with were uncomfortable and I had trouble eating almost anything. Thanks to you, I can't stop smiling, and no food is an obstacle anymore.

If anyone I meet needs help with their bite, or needs to just learn the health of their bite, or just wants to meet the nicest team of people I know, you're the first and only place I'll say to visit. I was incredibly lucky to be your patient and I'll help anyone I meet in the future to be as lucky in finding you."

This excerpt sums up why my passion for orthodontics is ever growing; nothing compares to providing people with the aesthetics and function of a healthy, happy smile!

Walking into Orthodontics of Cambridge for the first time, you'll quickly realize that this is not your average dental office. Windows set high into exposed brick walls shed light onto the colorful decor creating a vibrant and welcoming atmosphere. In the reception area, patients and guests are encouraged to use the office iMac and iPad2 for work or play. The wait is never long however, because the schedule is excellently managed by Dr. Murthy's team allowing him to adhere to the treatment model that he is recognized for: spending the maximum amount of one-on-one time as possible with his patients at each visit.

From the moment a new patient is welcomed into Dr. Murthy's practice, they know that they are taking the first step towards the healthy, beautiful smile they have always desired. The practice's top priority is to provide its patients with the highest quality orthodontic care, and as Dr. Murthy is an EXPERT in tooth movement, that level of care is guaranteed. In addition, they utilize the latest technological advances in the industry such as ceramic braces, non-visible lingual braces, Invisalign clear aligner treatment, digital photography & imaging, and the savviest practice management system.

Dr. Murthy combines exceptional skill with aesthetic vision to transform his patients' smiles. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Dental Medicine and served in the U.S. Air Force as a Comprehensive General Dentist. A driven and innovative orthodontist ever eager to learn, he not only attends continuing education courses throughout the year, but also actively participates in bi-monthly dental club meetings with other outstanding colleagues in the greater Boston area. Being a proud father of twin boys, Dr. Murthy loves staying active in sponsoring and providing services for educational programs in the communities of Belmont and Cambridge.
